

Major General John C. Koziol, U.S. Air Force
Commander, Air Force Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance Agency

Maj. Gen. John C. Koziol is Commander, Air Force Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance Agency; and Commander, Joint Information Operations Warfare Command, Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. As the Commander of the AF ISR Agency, General Koziol is responsible for providing multi-source intelligence products, applications, capabilities and resources, as well as information operations forces and expertise. The agency includes the 70th Intelligence Wing, the National Air and Space Intelligence Center, the Air Force Technical Applications Center, and all Air Force cryptologic operations. In his position as AF ISR Agency Commander, General Koziol also serves as the Commander of the Service Cryptologic Organization. In this capacity, he is responsible to the Director, National Security Agency, and Chief, Central Security Service, as the Air Force's sole authority for matters involving the conduct of cryptologic activities, including the spectrum of missions directly related to both tactical warfighting and national-level operations. As Commander, Joint Information Operations Warfare Command, General Koziol is responsible to the Commander, U.S. Strategic Command, for its mission of planning, integrating, and synchronizing comprehensive information operations in support of Joint Force Commanders and national-level objectives.

General Koziol received his commission through the Norwich University Air Force ROTC program as a distinguished graduate in 1976. He has commanded at the detachment, squadron, center, group and wing levels. In addition, General Koziol has served in several Air Staff positions to include program element monitor for national intelligence programs; executive officer to the Assistant Chief of Staff for Intelligence; Chief of Program Development and Integration; and Deputy Director of Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance. Prior to assuming his current position, General Koziol was the Commander, 55th Wing, Offutt AFB, Neb.